James Clark, Colored, Is In
Mercer Hospital, Trenton,
With Blasted Thigh

USED 2-BARRELED GUN

Police Search for Letcher Sanders, Who is Said To Have Done Shooting

A 15-year-old boy was shot in the right thigh, Saturday evening, when he failed to halt at the command of a man armed with a double barrel shotgun. Both the victim and the man allegedly doing the shooting are colored.

The shooting took place at the Starkey farms near Morrisville and according to what witnesses told the authorities the man had been drinking.

The victim is James Clark, 15, and the man who is said to have done the shooting is Letcher Sanders, 35.

Police have as yet not been able to locate Sanders, who apparently left the Starkey farms immediatly following the shooting. A teletype broadcast has been sent out containing his description.

As far as is known there was no justification for the shooting.

Police say that Clark was running across a field from one house to another. Sanders had the gun in his hand and told the lad to "halt."
Frightened, the boy kept running and Sanders is said to have fired.
The shot struck Clark in the right thigh.

Joseph Brown, also colored, was pushed the injured lad to the Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., where last reports he was doing nicely.

State Police at Langhorne and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo were called. Russo and Trooper Marks responded.

THE FBI TAKES OVER

Attorney General Clark's decision to have the FBI take over the investigation into the affairs of the Garsson munitions company implies that the Senate committee has established some sort of basis for possible prosecution.
That is all it implies, for it is possible that nothing to warrant grand jury action will be developed.

That is to say that the committee has succeeded in painting a general picture that looks bad for the companies involved. But there is evidently more to be done before serious charges of wrongdoing can be brought against anyone, for Mr. Clark has made it clear that action will not come if at all, until "careful examination of the books and records of the various companies is completed."

Nevertheless, it is gratifying that the Department of Justice is prepared to go ahead with the matter. It is also gratifying that the department intends to investigate the affairs of Andrew J. Higgins, the New Orleans pleasure boat builder who built up a great industrial enterprise during the war through government contracts for landing craft. If there was anything wrong there—and Mr. Higgins vigorously denies it —the public should know it.

ROBOT BOMBERS

Two drone B-17 bombers, guided by remote control, took off at Hilo, Hawaii, last week and landed 15 hours later at Murco Field, California. By spanning 2,400 miles of ocean they set a new record for multi-engined pilotless planes. In previous similar experiments the aircraft carried safety pilots.

The significance of this feat
hardly needs to be pointed out.
But Brig. Gen. William L. Richardson, chief of the Army Air Forces Guided Missiles Division,
who was in charge of "Operation Remote," has made certain that its meaning will not be lost on anyone. The flight, he has said, is a preview of the "not too far distant day" when it will be possible to put into the air an entire fleet of robot bombers directed to their destination by remote control.

It is easy to believe that this prophecy is all too well founded.
The two drones were put into the air from the ground, two mother ships then took over, and at the end of the flight ground crews managed the landings. These crews and their equipment were loaded aboard other planes which had to arrive ahead of the drones, but there was no hitch in the arrangements.

The mother ships on this flight flew at distances of a few hundred feet to three miles from the drone planes. That suggests that remote control is not yet very remote. But the success of the operation testifies to the great progress already made in guiding unmanned planes and it suggests that radio-directed atomic rockets traveling at terrific speeds someday will be capable of finding targets thousands of miles away.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Mar. 20, 1893. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The ceremonies incident to the presentation of flags to the public schools of Bristol by Fidelity Council, No. 21, Jr. O. U. A. M., were conducted in the Baptist Church on last Tuesday evening. The admission was by ticket and nearly 700 people were present. Mr. Doron Green, one of the leading members of Fidelity Council, acted as chairman of the meeting.

The first shad of the season was caught by Charles Strumfels on Tuesday night. It weighed six pounds.

(Following items from Gazette of April 6, 1893.)

The election of vestryman of St.
James' Church last Monday evening resulted in the choice of the following: G. M. Dorrance, R. H.
Morris, H. G. Booz, Dr. W. B.
Baker, Dr. John Ward, Serrill
Douglass, L. C. Wettling, Alfred Landreth and James Wright.

E. W. Munster and Alfred Baker have bought the coal yard from Strobel & Son on Otter street, and will commence operations on the 17th of April.

The organization of the new council took place last Monday morning. John C. Maule was elected president of council; J.
Wesley Wright, clerk; James Wright, treasurer; Charles Saxton, pound-keeper; A. Weir Gillespie, borough surveyor.

The new passenger steamboat which will run between Philadelphia and Trenton is expected to be ready for business about the 15th of August. It is now being built for the Interstate Steamboat Co. at Brooklyn, N. Y. It is 162 feet long and 29 feet wide, has twin screws, compound engines, and is con-

HOW TO BEAT THE PAC

But because it chanced to be a labor group, and because years of Communistic propaganda had "softened up" the thinking of the American people, and because there was no Republican spokesman available in the national arena to denounce the corrupt bargain in flaming terms, it escaped the repudiation it deserved at the hands of the voters.

The identical line-up faces the Republican Party at the coming election. In state after state, there are the same three unholy members to the band: the unprincipled national Democratic machine, unsavory local Democratic machines, and the PAC.

Of these three, the one which would walk off with the marbles in a Democratic victory would be the PAC.
Its leaders are bidding for control of Congress (they already control the White House) and of the entire Democratic party. In some areas, as in Pennsylvania, they are bidding also for control of the State governments.

Does PAC have to be beaten?

Of course not! No requirement on earth can prevent voters from making whatever choice they wish. They could agree on Communism itself, if they wanted; and certainly they are entitled to take its little brother, the PAC.

Contrary to some governments, the American people
as a whole are not bound to support their Constitution.
On the contrary, the right of revolution is a basic right of the electorate, set forth explicitly in the Declaration of Independence.

But the American people ought not to buy a revolution like a pig in a poke.

For them to support the PAC by the election of Democratic candidates with full knowledge that they are committing themselves to the acceptance of collectivism in place of the Constitution and to an economic gamble which has worked nowhere else it has been tried—that's one thing.

For them to swallow the Democratic ticket unaware that this amounts virtually to a "mandate" for a social and economic revolution—that's something else.

The PAC must be beaten if popular sovereignty, free government, free elections and economic stability are to be preserved.

Bold as the PAC has been at times, it usually remembers the last line of the familiar quotation about boldness —"be not too bold."

By preference, the PAC would rather pick as its targets the small and helpless—victims like Congressman Slaughter of Missouri; and even then, would rather have someone else like the President, the Democratic National Chairman, and the Pendergast boys, do the dirty work for it.

Its list of successful purges includes two types—those too feeble to meet the ganged-up powers the PAC is able to bring to bear, and those not bold enough to fight fire with fire.

Where it has tangled with fearless and competent opponents, the results have been different. Months ago the Detroit elections showed that the PAC could dish it out, but couldn't take it.

The classic example of how to beat the PAC is that recently furnished by Senator Byrd of Virginia.

As Senator Byrd said some time before the showdown, when he demanded that the National Government economize by firing millions of unneeded public employes, he was taking his political life in his hands.

In the Virginia Democratic primaries, which are of course equivalent to elections, the PAC set out to purge Senator Byrd as a favor to the White House—his economy talk was a thorn in the side of Presidential spending.

But when the mighty array of the PAC's money and power, plus the White House pressure, confronted the Virginia Senator, it turned out to be another huge Goliath sneering at a David.

Senator Byrd snowed under the PAC candidate. He gave it perhaps the worst licking it has yet received.

The formula of Senator Byrd is worth remembering.
His successful fight consisted of these elements:

First, fearless courage in meeting the issue; second, frank discussion of what he believed to be the basic questions;
third, political organization and teamwork.

That's a recipe worth pasting in Republican hats.

In China the Peace Daily, a Government paper, appealed to General Marshall and Ambassador Stuart to continue their efforts to end the civil war.

Washington, meanwhile, was dealing with economic and political problems. The Office of Price Administration stated that justified price increases would be granted as rapidly as possible. The War Assets Administration announced that it was investigating alleged misconduct in connection with the disposal of war surpluses.

PROCESSING NINE TAKES 4TH PLACE IN "SUB" LEAGUE

Bristol Fur Processors Beat Badenhausen by The Score of 10 to 7

AMSEL ON THE HILL

Processing Pitcher Hit Well at Start, But He Grew Stronger

Winning its ninth straight game, the Bristol Processing team took fourth place in the Bristol Suburban League by beating the Badenhausen team, 10-7, yesterday afternoon on Leedom's field.

Thus, the 1945 Badenhausen team is eliminated from this season's play-offs.

The arm of "Benny" Samsel had much to do with the Badies' defeat. Samsel was hit hard early in the contest but he got stronger as the game progressed and in the last two innings, the Cornwells team did not get a solitary base blow. In the 11th, Samsel struck out 13 batters, winning the side in the first and third innings.

Manager Hemp of Badenhausen started "Inky" Schneider on the mound and he was rapped for five runs in the second frame. "Inky" pitched until the sixth when "Mike" Risti went in. DeRisti hurled one more and Jack Hansen relieved him. Hansen was the best of the lot, permitting but one hit in three innings.

"Trevoze" is Oldest House in Bensalem

name was applied to the township. The present Trevoze estate is all that is now left of the original tract.

The mansion house was completed in 1687 and was one of the finest residences in the province. It was a large stone building of two stories with pointed finish. There were two wings, one at the west end and one at the east end of the house. These were used as kitchen and slave quarters. At the east end of the dwelling was erected a small stone fireproof building with an iron door. The county records were kept here when the county seat was at Bristol and Growden was prothonotary. Back of the house was Growden's famous orchard of 1,000 apple trees imported from England.

The house has seen little change except for the addition of a half story in 1847. Gone are the spacious grounds, well-kept gardens and famous orchard, but the mansion still stands on its "Hill of Peace" the same as it did when William Penn visited here to consult with his friend, Joseph Growden. Here laws were formed for the better government of the province.

Years later, Benjamin Franklin discussed his theories of electricity here with Joseph Galloway, husband of Grace Growden.

Joseph Galloway was an able lawyer, and at the beginning of the Revolution had established a splendid practice in the courts of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. He was a member of the Provincial Assembly for eighteen years, and speaker of the house for twelve years. He was a man of great activity and great influence. He believed that the difficulties between the Colonies and Great Britain which eventually led to the Revolution could be settled without bloodshed. These views he upheld in the Continental Congress. So great was his influence that his opponents decided to silence him. In the summer of 1776, a squad of soldiers were sent to Trevoze in search of him. The family had been warned, however, and had fled. After racking the mansion, plundering the wine cellar, the soldiers fired a parting shot into the iron door of the old record office.

Joseph Galloway had one daughter, Betsy, who was considered quite a belle. Among her admirers was a British army officer, Betsy's father forbade her to have anything to do with the young man and threatened to shoot him if he as much set foot on his property. The servants sympathized with the young lovers and carried notes for them. Not long after, the pair eloped and were married. When Galloway learned of the servants' part in the plans he threatened to sell them in the open courtyard at the rear of the mansion. This happened about ten years before the Revolutionary war.

For many years it had been a neighborhood tradition that at the time of the Galloways' flight from Trevoze, before the beginning of the Revolution, that Mrs. Grace Growden Galloway had had things buried, things too cumbersome to carry away. In 1888, the tradition was confirmed. While working on the farm, a laborer dug up the remains of what had once been a chest of rare, costly eggshell or India China. Unfortunately, nearly all the pieces were broken when discovered but enough remained to show that the pieces were painted with pictures of Chinese life after the pattern of designs used by the Chinese artists for the last thousand years. The pieces had been packed carefully and with thought.

There was one piece of common ware bearing a likeness of King George III. The only reason to account for this piece being included was that the family might fear it would show where their loyalties lay, thus making it too dangerous to expose it to view. A similar box of china is supposed to have been unearthed by William Ridge when he was a lessee of the property.

With encroaching building developments, cutting through of new roads, and other symptoms of an increasing population, this old mansion, once well-known, popular and prominent in its day, now waits quietly and patiently for the time it will be considered of no use or consequence, as something in the way, worthy only of elimination. May we do what we can to keep alive the story and tradition of this historical landmark.

Addressing Sellersville Borough Council, Chief Burgess Harry E. Barnhart said since the heavy rain and floods several weeks ago he has received more than 40 complaints regarding local flood conditions, and it was announced Council is anxious to do something to remedy the conditions.

Council read a communication from the district engineer of the State Highway Department, who said a study of the conditions, especially where Branch creek flows under Route 309, is being made, and that just as soon as possible an effort will be made to remedy the conditions.

"Farm Budget Practical?" In this connection a large number of the members said they feel it is to the advantage of the farmer to budget his accounts.

Four new members, two contributing and two active, were accepted at the monthly meeting of the Lincolnhaven Fire Company. The contributing members are Charles Applegate, Pineville, and Arthur Hanna, Buckingham Valley, and the two active members are Hamilton Thompson and Francis Soden, both of Wycombe.

The meeting, which was attended by 26 members, was in charge of the president, Walter M. Reiff. Chief Harold DeConroy reported the company had received one alarm the past month. That was to the property of Charles Davis, Lahaska, where a barn was struck by a cold bolt.

Miss Doris R. Ely Becomes Bride of Ensign Wm. J. Deatcher at Eddington

EDDINGTON, Aug. 12.—The marriage of Miss Doris R. Ely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Harold Ely, Cornwells Heights, to Ensign William J. Deatcher, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Deatcher, Philadelphia, took place on Saturday at two p. m. in Eddington Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Edwin Boardman, Philadelphia, officiated.

The bride was attired in a gown of white eyelet batiste, fashioned with a square neckline, long fitted bodice, full skirt with hoop effect and train; half length, shirred sleeves. A coronet headpiece, with veil of imported net with Irish point lace border and trimmed with seed pearls and orange blossoms was worn. She carried a bouquet of lilies and wore white satin sandals.

Mrs. Charles Mudie, Eddington, matron of honor, wore a gown of pink marquisette with sweetheart neckline, half sleeves with ruffled edge, fitted bodice, and long, full skirt. A wreath of flowers was worn as a headpiece and her slippers were white satin. Miss Laura Ely, sister of the bride, Miss Janet Deatcher, sister of the groom, and Miss Mary Sullivan, of Devon, served as bridesmaids. They wore gowns of white flowered yellow marquisette with satin under slips, fashioned with illusion neckline, fitted bodices, half-length sleeves, long full skirt and buttoned backs. Wreaths of flowers were worn as headpieces. Slippers were of silver tone. The bride and her attendants wore single strands of pearls.

Mr. Kalston MacDonell, Philadelphia, served as best man. Mr. E. Harold Ely gave his daughter in marriage. The ushers were: Messrs. Horace States, Bristol, cousin of the bride; Charles Mudie, Eddington; William Mitchell, cousin of the groom, Camden, N. J.

Organ selections were rendered by Mrs. Gertrude Kirk, Mrs. Otto Grupp, Jr., vocalist, sang "The Lord's Prayer," "I Love You Truly," "Because."

Mrs. Ely, mother of the bride, wore a dress of powder blue crepe, blue feathered hat and white accessories.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Deatcher, chose a gray print dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of white gardenias.

For her wedding trip, the former Miss Ely selected a red gabardine suit with black hat and accessories, and white crepe blouse. She wore a corsage of gardenias and roses.

A reception took place at the Green Light Restaurant, Lincoln Highway, 65 attending. The newlyweds will reside at Pensacola, Fla., for a time, where Ensign Deatcher is stationed.

AMBROSANO READY TO BATTLE TURNER AT ST. ANN'S ARENA

Both Are Known As Hard Fighters To Local Fans

SULLA TO BOX VACCA

Will Fight in The First Six-Round Semi-Windup Fracas

Angelo Ambrosano, hard-hitting right-hander from South Philadelphia, will meet the shifty Al Turner, of Trenton, tonight in the eight-round windup in the St. Ann's Arena, Wood and Franklin streets. First bout will start promptly at 8.45 o'clock.

Ambrosano and Turner are both known to the fight devotees of this section as both worked their way to the top of the amateur ladder with the aid of bouts in the St. Ann's ring.

Ambrosano worked under "Blinky" Palermo when he was manager of the Pen-Mar boxing team. After getting his start locally, he fought in many Philadelphia rings and then entered the Golden Gloves tournament. He reached the top rung of the ladder here and then turned pro.

He is the same Ambrosano without a change in his fighting style. From the opening bell on, he does nothing but keep charging at his opponent, never letting up a minute and swinging his fists at the same time.

Turner really got his start in the St. Ann's arena. While a student at Fallington High, he was a member of the track team. He heard of the Diamond team in the amateurs and decided to join up. His lanky reach gave him the advantage over many of his opponents and soon he was at the top. His family then moved to Trenton and Al decided to enter the New Jersey tournament. He won this and was eliminated in the New York City finals.

So tonight's battle will be between the two boys who at one time represented Trenton and Philadelphia in the National Golden Gloves tournament.

Turner, under the management of Jess Goss, is in fine condition and the fans are assured that once the bell rings they will see eight rounds of fast action as it is doubtful whether the bout will end in a kayo.

The first six-round semi-windup will be between "Jimmy" Sulla, of Norristown, and Joe Vacca, of Philadelphia. Sulla recently scored a knockout win at Valley Forge and expects to repeat his performance tonight, adding Vacca to his list of knockout victims. Sulla is a hard puncher and is favored over Vacca, who turned pro after a successful career as an amateur fighter.

The second six-rounder is between Harry Robinson, of Norristown, and Johnny Scars, of Philadelphia. Robinson was a victor in the show at Norristown Tuesday night and Matchmaker Moffo, liking his style of fighting, decided that the fans of this section should see this whirlwind in action.

In the first two four-round bouts, Bristol boys will be on the card "Chuck" Bigelow, Cleveland street youngster, is hooked to meet Tony Del Rossi, of Philadelphia.

The fact that Del Rossi scored a one-round knockout last week means nothing to Bigelow who is determined to start his professional career with a win. Bigelow did some boxing while a member of Uncle Sam's navy and with two years of service behind him is now ready to do some civilian glove-swinging.

Bigelow has been working out with Jess Rodgers, of Croydon. The pair have been working out in the St. Ann's arena and appear in fine shape.

Rodgers will be paired with "Jimmy" Mills, of Philadelphia. Mills recently entered the boxing game and will be in the same class as Rodgers.

General admission tickets will go on sale at seven o'clock and the largest crowd of the season is expected to support the card. The last four shows have been of the highest calibre and Promoter Moffo feels that this will be no exception.

ROBSON IN 'ROCKET' CAR DRIVES AT 108 M.P.H. SPEED

Indianapolis Victor Sets Two New Track Records at South Langhorne

CLOCKED AT 113 M.P.H.

It Was First Occasion That A Rocket Car Has Been Driven on Dirt Track

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Aug. 12—

In his rocket-propelled car George Robson, Maywood, California, hung up a new record and also won the 29-mile feature event at the Speedway races here.

In the first occasion of a rocket car being driven on a dirt track, Robson, winner of the 500-mile Memorial Day classic at Indianapolis, reeled off a mile in 33.29 seconds, or 108.1 miles per hour. The track record for a gas-driven car is 163 miles per hour.

In a special "speed trap" test for 1/30th of a mile during a two-second rocket release, Robson was clocked at 106 seconds, or 113.21 miles per hour.

Later, a crowd of 28,387 paid fans watched the California speedster roar around the 20 laps of the feature of the AAA-sanctioned big-car program in 12:20.54 minutes to lead a pack of ten qualifiers. The fastest time the 20 laps had been negotiated in previously was 12:23.38, by Ted Horn, of Patterson, N. J., in 1941.

Robson passed Walter Adair, of Bernardsville, N. J., on the 11th lap and never relinquished his lead. Adair finished second and Walt Brown, of Long Island, N. Y., took third place honors.

Robson won the first of three 8-mile heats in 5:49.2, with George Madera, Elizabeth, N. J., second, and Danny Goss, Mt. Holly, N. J., third.

Adair took the second heat in 5:11.59 followed by Red Byron, Atlanta, Ga., and Walt Walker, of Philadelphia. Brown, who finished third in the feature, sped to victory in the third test in 5:6.34. Charlie Miller, Philadelphia, coming in second and Jim Serreck, Newark, N. J., third. In a consolation heat, Otis Stein, York, Pa., reeled off the eight miles in 5:29.66. Stein was followed in by Tommy Mattson, Wilmington, Del., and George Cabana, Hartford, Conn.

LEADING DRIVERS DIDN'T DO SO WELL AT AQUADROME

Others Close Up On Point Scoring to Contend for Prize Money

WILLIAMS GETS SPILL

Edwards Replaces Motor and Beats Shannon's Hydroplane in Thrill Race

EDDINGTON, Aug. 12—The leading drivers of the outboard motor-boat racing at the Neshaminy Aquadrome did not fare so well yesterday as other drivers closed in on the point scoring.

Although official figures will not be released until later in the week, it is almost a positive fact that "Doc" Edwards, flashy Kensington driver, has replaced the Eddington lad, "Doc" Williams, in season's points for the $1,000 prize.

"Doc" Williams received his first spill of the season in the second qualifying heat in Class 1. Rounding a turn in the seventh lap, he flipped over, and the event went to Lee Stone, of Seattle, Washington.

"Doc" Edwards was also washed out in one event, the second qualifying heat of class two. Five of the boats washed Edwards out, while Dean Worcester went on to win the heat.

The other driver to be eliminated in one of the races was "Bill" Guldin, of Coatesville. Bill had captured the first qualifying heat and placed third in the second heat. But with a chance to add more points to his total in the feature event, he ran his outboard into a bank and was out of the race.

For a while the fans who crowded the tiny aquadrome thought that the challenge race between Bryon Shannon, Audubon, N. J., and Walter "Doc" Edwards, of Kensington, was not going to take place.

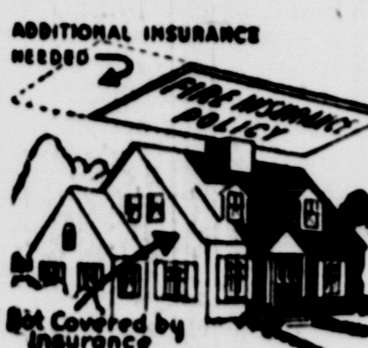

While warming up for the race, a motor on Edwards' outboard went out of commission. He quickly replaced this with a new one and with this beat Shannon's highly-publicized hydroplane which can go at 66 miles an hour.

Both drivers were cutting the curves sharply during the race, and when the two-mile run (8 laps) were over, Edwards was still about a quarter of a lap ahead of Shannon.
